

Rhyme

Mykala Sinclair

Thanks A lot

Thanks a lot for my looks: so cool.
Thanks a lot for my intelligence; it's needed at school.
Thanks for music knowledge; it's really handy.
Thanks for my hair: so soft, it's really dandy.
Thanks for my old spirit; I like a lot.
This is where sarcasm comes in...
Thanks a lot for my height; I'm on the short end.
Thanks a lot for my neck; it's short as heck.
Thanks a lot for the way I talk.
Thanks a lot for sickness; sometimes I can barely walk.
Some things I like; some I do not,
But I guess I'll deal with it;
I have no reason not.

Trisha Bhattacharyya

Mom, I love your music talent
That I may possess.
I thank you for being athletic, Dad.
It allows me to play tennis; I must confess.
Your dark brown eyes are so sweet, Mom;
I love having them as my own.
Your intelligence is great, Dad;
It'll come in handy when I am grown.

Dad, you are pretty disorganized;
It shows up in my daily operations all the time.
Mom, you really are clumsy; It trips me everyday.
Dad, I have little focus just like you;
I really hate, I gotta say.
I blame you, Mom, for my eyesight; It gets in my way.
I lose interest in things quickly; I owe it to my dad.
That's not very helpful; It really is sad.

Rhythm

Munire Dagtas

I get my straight teeth from who, from who?
I get them from you, from you, Cousin.

I get my determination from who, from who?
I get it from you, from you, Daddy.

I get my hand of art from who, from who?
I get it from you, from you, Auntie.

I get my math skills from who, from who?
I get them from you, from you, Mommy.

I get my kindness from who, from who?
I get it from you, from you, Granny.

You know very well, very well
What the bad things are, things are;
I wouldn't name them here, them here,
But I really, really have to, have to.

I get my forgetfulness from who, from who?
I get it from you, from you, Uncle.

I get my temper from who, from who?
I get it from you, from you, Cousin.

I get my clumsiness from who, from who?
I get it from you, from you, Granny.

I get my broad shoulders from who, from who?
I get them from you, from you, Daddy.

I get my colorless hair from who, from who?
I get it from you, from you, Uncle.

Refrain

Nimit Gandhi

I have good health.
Thank you, Family!
But I have anger issues.
Dad, I blame you for that!
I have good and bad traits.

I have a lot of interest in sports.
Thank you, Men!
But I'm really small in size.
Thanks a lot, Mom!
I have good and bad traits.

I understand my culture very well.
Thank you, Ladies!
But I'm really weak.
Cousins, I blame you for that!
I have good and bad traits.

I'm really intelligent.
Thank you, Grandma!
But I get addicted to everything.
Sis, I blame you for that!
I have good and bad traits.

I have a very nice personality.
Thank you, Gandhi Family!
But I have very SUCKY eyesight.
Ancestors, thanks a lot!
I have good and bad traits.